TOWN AND COUNTRY AT MERCY OF FLAMES

More Than 100 Lives Known to Have Been Lost in Conflagration Raging in British Columbia.

CROWS NEST PASS COUNTRY SWEPT CLEAN

Territory of 100 Square Miles Seething Furnace Thousands Driven From Home by Rapid Advance of Fire, Hundreds of Lumbermen and Prospectors May Have Perished. Worst Disaster in Canada's History.

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 2.—As a result of bush fires, the town of Fernie, B. C., is wiped off the map as a child cleans a slate; Michel, 11 miles distant, is in flames, and the fate of Hosmer, Olsen and Sparwood, intervening towns, is in doubt, they being cut off from all communication. Over 100 lives are known to have been lost, 71 of them in Fernie.

A territory of 100 square miles in extent is a seething mass of flames. Through it are scattered hundreds of lumbermen and prospectors, so that the actual loss of life will not be known for days. The property of the Canadian Pacific and Great Northern railways are destroyed, the bridges and rolling stock burning, so that it is impossible to enter or leave the burning area.

The inhabitants of the towns have fled to open districts in the vicinity, in the hope of safety. The railway companies have placed all available trains at their disposal, and unless there is a change of wind within the next 24 hours, the whole of the Crows Nest pass country will be left to the flames.

There is no possibility of estimating the loss of life and property which will result, for the flames are driven by a half gale, making it impossible to put up a fight against their advance. The conflagration is the greatest which has ever visited Canada and ranks only with the San Francisco disaster.

For the past month forest fires have been raging in the mountains of the Elk river valley, but they have not been considered serious. Saturday morning, a heavy wind sprang up from the west, and early in the afternoon the flames appeared over the crest of the mountains to the west of Fernie. This ran down the mountainside and before a fire guard could be organized had entered the town. Within an hour the town was doomed and the inhabitants sought safety in flight, leaving their all behind them. All night and this morning the exodus continued, the destination being a small prairie in the valley, three miles south of the town.

Thousands Homeless.

At present 3,000 people are camped there in the open, their only protection being shelters built of brush or blankets, while a constant shower of sparks from the burning area keeps falling through the pall of smoke by which they are surrounded. For a time communication with towns to the east was kept open, but with the burning of the bridges across the Elk river, this was closed.

The hills in all directions are a seething mass of flames, cutting off every avenue of escape. The fire spread with unprecedented rapidity and it is feared that several parties who tried to get through the pass, have been cut off.

In Fernie, the only buildings remaining are six small shacks on the banks of the Elk river, the offices of the Crows Nest Coal company, and the Fikes Woodware house. The offices of the Canadian Pacific railroad and the Great Northern are gone, together with all of the rolling stock in the yards, the sleeping car "Osceola" being the only car left. One hundred cars of coke, the property of the Great Northern, are gone and the stock piles of coal and coke, holding about half a million tons, are in flames. It is now feared that the fire may get in the mines themselves, several of which are open in the neighborhood. This will mean incalculable damage, as the whole of the valley is underlaid with coal.

Fire Follows Crest of Mountain.

At present, the fire is following the crest of the mountain chain, above Sparwood, eating down into the valleys on either side. It is traveling at a tremendous rate, and unless there is a change of wind will cross the boundary into Montana within the next 12 hours. There are thousands of mines and prospectors' claims in the track of the fire, all of which are in peril. A slight change of wind has occurred and Michel has been taken out of the more direct path.

Fire fighting apparatus is of no avail, for the air is filled with fragments of burning wood and sheets of flames

OULAHAN IS APPOINTED

NEWSPAPER MAN IN CHARGE OF REPUBLICAN LITERATURE.

Literary Work of Committee in Hands of Washington Correspondent of New York Sun.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Richard V. Oulahan, for many years the Washington correspondent of the New York Sun, will have general charge of all the literary work of the Republican national committee. This appointment was announced today by Frank H. Hitchcock, the national chairman. Mr. Oulahan arrived in New York late tonight and will begin his duties tomorrow. Under the arrangements made for the consolidation of the press bureaus of the national committee and the congressional committee, the preparation and distribution of the Republican literary work will be directed by Mr. Oulahan, who will be assisted by Francis Curtis of Springfield Mass., whose selection as editor was announced two weeks ago.

The appointment of Mr. Oulahan is pleasing to Mr. Hitchcock and Representative McKinley of Illinois, chairman of the congressional committee. Mr. Oulahan is pleasing to Mr. Hitchcock and Representative McKinley of Illinois, chairman of the congressional committee. Mr. Oulahan is a native of the District of Columbia. He was an intimate friend of President Harrison and has held the confidence of all subsequent administrations. The confidence of Mr. Taft throughout his official life was given to Mr. Oulahan, who also has held the friendship of Mr. Roosevelt.

Mr. Oulahan is a member of the Gridiron club and has received many letters from fellow newspaper men who esteem him highly.

Few callers were seen by Mr. Hitchcock today, the national chairman having spent the day in clearing up correspondence.

CANDIDATES INACTIVE

QUIET WEEK LOOKED FOR IN POLITICAL WORLD.

Taft Will Make One Address, Bryan None Kern Booked for Speech. Events of Week.

A quiet week is looked for in the political world. William H. Taft, the Republican nominee, has promised to address the Virginia Bar association at its annual meeting on Wednesday at Hot Springs, Va. The speech will be nonpolitical and is the only one the candidate has planned to make during the week. W. J. Bryan expects to finish writing his speech accepting the Democratic presidential nomination on Wednesday. No engagements for the week have been announced for him.

Eugene W. Chafin of Chicago, the Prohibition presidential nominee, is to make several speeches during the week in Lincoln.

Of the vice presidential candidates, James S. Sherman is to spend a week on Wolf Island in St. Lawrence river, resting and gathering strength for the campaign. John W. Kern has one address scheduled for the week. This is to be delivered before a Chautauqua gathering at Charles City, Iowa, on Saturday.

Other political events scheduled for the week include a Democratic state nominating convention at Wallace, Idaho, on Tuesday and a convention of the National Liberty party at Wheeling, W. Va., on Monday and Tuesday, at which candidates for President and vice president of the United States are to be named. The call for the convention is addressed to all members of the National Liberty leagues and other organizations and individuals interested in the welfare of the negro race.

The officers and members of the National Negro Democratic league committees will meet in Chicago Thursday at which time a proclamation will be issued to the colored voters of the country. A place and date for holding the national convention of the party will be named.

Senators Aldrich, Hale, Knox and Daniels and Representatives Vreeland, Overstreet, Burton and Puddett of the national monetary commission, sail from New York Tuesday for the purpose of making an exhaustive examination of the currency and banking systems of Europe.

Aeronauts are looking forward to a week of interesting aerial demonstrations. Captain Thomas S. Baldwin

24-HOUR GENERAL STRIKE THREATENED

PARIS IS CONFRONTED WITH SERIOUS DILEMMA.

Labor Camp Convinced That It Is Able to Treat French Nation to Demonstration of Power.

PARIS, Aug. 2.—The 24-hour general strike, with which the city is threatened tomorrow, is the sole topic of conversation in Paris tonight. While there are no signs of panic, such as preceded the May-day manifestations in 1906, considerable anxiety and indignation prevails in the public mind. The press, almost without exception, reprehends the intolerable behavior of the revolutionary section of the general labor organization, and urges on the government the suppression of it as the only means of removing what it declares is a growing menace to society.

The authorities are confident they have the situation well in hand. In addition to the large police force of Paris, the regular garrison numbers 25,000 men, and this force, it is held, is ample to assure order. The troops all have been confined to barracks, so as to be available at a moment's notice. The labor camp is convinced that it is able to treat the nation to a demonstration of its power, such as seldom before has been seen. It is said that the general labor federation has received the adhesion of unions affiliated with it affecting, it is estimated, 100,000 workers, including the carmen, commercial travelers, silversmiths, electricians, printers, day laborers, butchers, bakers, hotel employes, etc.

Very few of the unions refused to issue a strike order for tomorrow, in compliance with the federation's instructions. Early today bill stickers began to placard walls with a most violent proclamation, which explains that tomorrow's strike is in protest against the action of the government in "preparing an ambush and turning loose the soldiery who, by charging and sabering, had stung the manifestants into replying, thus giving the troops an excuse for massacre. The authorities do not dare to announce the real number of workers assassinated at Vigneux. This crime can not pass unnoticed and the only reply possible is a 24-hour strike."

The police arrested the bill stickers and the manifesto was then distributed in the form of handbills. The

SOFT ROAD GAVE WAY

LETS HEAVY AUTO TUMBLE DOWN BANK.

Two Persons Killed, Three Others Injured—Mountain Road in California Unsafe.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2.—The five surviving victims of the automobile tragedy in the Santa Cruz mountains yesterday, in which Mrs. Frederick Marriott and Jesse Gilbert, who was acting as chauffeur, met death, arrived here today. Miss Dorothy Partridge, although horribly burned, is getting along well, and unless blood poisoning should develop, will recover. Desiree Marriott, the six-year-old girl, had her nose badly injured and was otherwise cut and bruised but was able to drive a horse from the scene of the accident to the train. Frederick Marriott, proprietor of the "News Letter" was bruised and suffered from the shock.

Marriott attributes the accident to a runaway and the party continued road on the summit of the Santa Cruz mountain. Gilbert was at the wheel and the car was going at a good speed down the grade, about 10 miles from Los Gatos. Suddenly the soft earth on the side of the road gave way and the heavy machine plunged down an embankment, turning over twice before it struck against a tree.

Mrs. Marriott was caught under the tonneau and killed instantly, her neck being broken. Gilbert lived but three minutes, he being suffocated under the car. When Miss Partridge, who was on the front seat alongside Gilbert, realized the car was going over the embankment, she tried to jump. Gilbert seized her wrist and held her tight. She too was caught under the automobile and remained there for an hour and a half, suffering great agony from burning gasoline and hot water which fell from the machine.

WILL HELP DEMOCRATS

BONAPARTE'S DECISION WELCOMED BY BRYAN.

Shows Need of Legislation Framed From Standpoint of Depositor Rather Than the Banker.

FAIRVIEW, LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 2.—Attorney General Bonaparte's opinion delivered yesterday, holding it to be illegal for national banks of Oklahoma to contribute toward the guaranty fund for the protection of depositors of Oklahoma to avail themselves of the other privileges of the state banking act, was the subject of a good deal of discussion here today. Prominent Democrats of Lincoln freely averred that following so closely on the heels of the Standard Oil reversal in Chicago and the contempt cases against the labor leaders in Washington, the opinion of the federal attorney general still further strengthens the Democratic party in the political campaign. Mr. Bryan himself gave expression to the effect that the opinion will have a good effect in the coming elections. "It accentuates the issue" said he, "and emphasizes the necessity of legislation framed from the standpoint of the depositor rather than from the standpoint of the banker."

He would talk no further on the subject, but said that he would give it liberal treatment in his forthcoming speech at Topeka, Kan., sometime during the present month. The usual Sunday quiet prevailed at Fairview today. In the morning, Mr. Bryan, accompanied by his wife, went into Lincoln and attended the services at Westminster Presbyterian church, where Mr. Bryan said he heard a splendid sermon, the text being "How shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation."

There were very few callers at the Bryan home, but a large number of people rode out and strolled through the grounds. Having practically got his acceptance speech off his hands, Mr. Bryan is directing some of his thoughts to his farm. The principal object of interest with him just now is a large field of alfalfa, from which in a few days he expects to gather a third crop of the present season and which he calculates will yield still another.

Plans for the platform in the capitol grounds, where the notification exercises are to take place on August 12, have been completed and work on its construction will be begun early in the week. The committee having in charge the arrangements are much gratified over the prompt acceptance of the invitations to the Republican state and city officials to participate in the ceremonies, thus insuring the nonpartisan feature, with the exception of the speech which it was intended to give.

HARRIMAN EXPLAINS LATE TRANSACTIONS

FOR PURPOSE OF SAVING BAD FINANCIAL SITUATION.

Self-Preservation Alone Sought by Railroad Men in W. & L. E. Deal.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—"There is to be no abandonment of railroads nor is there to be any combination of railroads overnight. What has been done, has been undertaken solely with the purpose of saving a bad financial situation."

Edward H. Harriman said this tonight, while discussing the deal whereby a syndicate of bankers recently took up $5,000,000 in short-term notes of the Wheeling and Lake Erie railroad.

"What I have done has not been for the purpose of making money," he said, "but simply because matters were becoming tangled and it had become necessary for someone to try to make a bad situation better. Some of us do not believe that it would be a good thing for the country generally, if more railroads should go into the hands of receivers, and so we are doing what we can to prevent this in the interest of self-preservation. That is all there is to it. In fact, things have become so complex that I scarcely know where I am. I am going out to the Siskiyou mountains to think over the situation and when I am back, I may be able to talk intelligently concerning the future.

"But in the meantime, I should like to have it understood that there is no deep-laid plot back of it all, but that the deal regarding the Wheeling and Lake Erie was simply a transaction made necessary to save a railroad and thereby benefit all other roads alike."

Mr. Harriman was asked why the transcontinental roads had decided to give up the orient trade.

"The oriental business is largely sentimental," he replied. "The hope of building up a large Asiatic trade through the Pacific ports of the United States has been largely a dream and it has turned out to be, in a great extent, a fake. It was not my dream for I have been familiar with conditions in this regard from the very first. The interstate commerce commission has ruled that the roads must do certain things in connection with that trade, such as publishing the inland proportions of their export rates and their dealing with tramp steamers. We be-

HARD KNOCK ON GOVERNMENT

Minister De Rues Indiscreetly Slams President Castro's Foreign Policies, and His Dismissal Is Requested—Cruiser Not on Mischief Bent.

CARACAS, Friday, July 31.—The differences between President Castro and the government of the Netherlands will probably turn out to be less serious than believed at first. All talk of armed conflict is regarded as absurd in this country. The government believes that it had the fullest justification for its dismissal of M. DeRues, the Dutch minister, and points to the action of the government of the United States in asking the recall of the English minister, Lord Sackville West, at President Cleveland's request, in October, 1888, as well as a like demand upon Spain for the recall of Minister Dupuy De Lome by President McKinley, in February, 1898. Indeed, the case of Minister De Rues is said to be much more flagrant than either of the others referred to.

Intended for Publication.

In the case of Sackville West and DeLome, the letters written denunciatory of the American President were confidential and not intended for publication, while DeRues, on the other hand, wrote his letter with the deliberate purpose that it should be published.

There is a society in Amsterdam called the "Hou en Trouw" (loyal and true). Its membership consists of 65 Holland merchants and its object is to secure employment for young Hollanders in foreign countries. This society publishes a monthly bulletin for circulation among its members. It notes existing conditions in foreign countries and indicates where there are vacancies which might be profitably filled by young men from the Netherlands. In order to secure information respecting the opportunities for employment, the secretary makes a practice of sending out letters asking for information to Dutch merchants as well as to the ministers and consuls of the Netherland government throughout the world.

It was in response to one of these let-

LINE UP WITH "WETS"

HOTEL MEN DON'T WANT STATE TO GO "DRY."

Declare Prohibition Would Keep Conventions Away and Kill Tourist Business.

A crusade against making Colorado a "dry" state was inaugurated at a meeting of the officers and members of the executive board of the Rocky Mountain Hotel Men's association, held at the Antlers hotel in this city yesterday afternoon. While they do not anticipate that prohibition will be made one of the issues of the fall campaign, they urge that the business interests unite to elect legislative measures whose opinions are those of the "wets." The hotel men give as the reason for their activity, their claim that Colorado's reputation as a tourist and convention state would suffer should the "drys" win out.

They adopted a resolution pledging their support in the campaign for a "wet" state. In further explanation of the attitude of the hotel men, President S. F. Dutton said:

President Dutton's Views.

"Making Colorado a dry state would mean the ruination of our tourist and convention business. Atlanta previously had twice as many conventions as Denver, but last year, since Georgia went dry, it did not have a single one. For the last 20 years Colorado has been gaining steadily as a tourist state and Denver as a convention city. Our convention business has increased 150 per cent in the last four years, and we can double our tourist business every three years if we keep up our present activity. As vice president of the Denver Convention league, I can state authoritatively that the league will go out of business immediately if Colorado goes prohibition. When people come here they want things as they have them at home."

To Advertise Colorado.

Aside from this action, the meetings authorized the issuance of a book advertising Colorado as a convention and tourist state and Denver as a convention city. This book is to contain 30 pages and an edition of 10,000 copies will be printed. It will contain illustrations of the various hotels and resorts, the principal scenic points of interest and the Denver auditorium. It will also tell of the capacity and rates of the hotels in the state. Two-thirds

WILL MEAN MUCH TO WHOLE STATE

INVESTIGATIONS OF INTERIOR SECRETARY IMPORTANT.

DECISION EAGERLY AWAITED

IRRIGATION PROJECTS IN SAN LUIS VALLEY INVOLVED.

FARMERS PLEAD THEIR CASE

Right of People of Southern Colorado to Impound Waters of Rio Grande River Is Questioned. Thousands of Acres of Land Affected.

DENVER, Aug. 2.—Colorado has much at stake in the investigations being conducted by Secretary of the Interior James A. Garfield, in Mesa and Montrose counties and the San Luis valley. At the latter place, the right of the people of southern Colorado to impound the waters of the Rio Grande river for the purpose of creating immense reservoirs, is involved. The government irrigation projects are being inspected at the former.

Means Much to State.

If the secretary decides in favor of Colorado on the Rio Grande question, thousands upon thousands of acres of arid land will be turned into flourishing fields of grain; the population of the San Luis valley will be greatly increased, and millions will be added to the wealth of the state.

When the industrious farmers of this rich valley presented their case to the secretary some time ago he went over the entire ground carefully and the original order limiting the supply of water was so amended that the husbandmen were able to get all of the water they needed, temporarily at least.

After the secretary's personal inspection the people of the valley are liable to get much more water than at present.

It is his idea that Colorado settlers are not the ones to suffer, as the border line of this state does not touch Mexico, and if there is to be any diminution in the supply of water, the farmers of other states will have to stand for it and not Colorado.

Supply Is Sufficient.

The supply at the headwaters of the Rio Grande is sufficient to supply all of the Colorado farmers without affecting the amount that is supposed to go to Mexico, according to the terms of the treaty.

It is said that there are at least 500,000 acres of land possible of reclamation by means of proper storage reservoirs. The number of acres now under cultivation in San Luis valley is not much in excess of 300,000, so that the population and wealth of the valley will be doubled if Secretary Garfield's ruling is in favor of Colorado.

Some of the proposed reservoirs which will be built if the people of Colorado are permitted to impound flood waters of the Rio Grande and its tributaries are as follows:

Teltec reservoir, capacity 40,000 acre feet; Ik creek, 20,000 feet; the Magote, 30,000 feet; the Alamosa, 50,000 feet; the La Jara, 15,000 feet; Farmers Union, 20,000 feet; South Fork, 5,000 feet;

538 MILES IN AIRSHIP

ROY KNABENSHUE EXPECTS TO COVER THIS DISTANCE.

Trip From Denver to Omaha Is Planned in September—Greatest Flight Ever Attempted.

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 2.—Roy Knabenshue, the aeronaut of Toledo, who will be in Denver the second week in September to exhibit his new passenger-carrying airship at the Colorado interstate fair and exposition, will attempt to lower the world's record for a dirigible airship before returning to Toledo.

According to the announcement made in Denver today, Knabenshue will start from the interstate fairgrounds in Denver Saturday morning, September 12, with two of his assistants, for Omaha, 538 miles from Denver. The world's record now is 190 miles but with climatic conditions as they are west of the Missouri river, particularly in Colorado, it is believed that Knabenshue will at least make 300 miles and possibly will be successful in covering the entire distance to Omaha. It is being arranged that at several towns between Denver and Omaha there will be automobiles follow the airship, to be notified of its flight from time to time by telegraph, so that during the entire flight there will be an automobile following.

This is the greatest flight ever attempted by an airship, and advices from Knabenshue are that he is confident that in his new air craft he will not only establish a new world's record, but will be able to [illegible] the Missouri river.

Aeronauts throughout the world will be interested in this flight and it is possible that several will come to Denver to witness the start, as it is said that they will arrange [illegible] which automobiles. Knabenshue will reach Denver September 7.

SPECIAL ACTS AT ZOO DRAW LARGE CROWDS

Dare Devil Berger, in his two thrilling and sensational acts, made a tremendous hit at the Zoo yesterday. To see his wonderful feats, an exceptionally large crowd was attracted to the popular Zoywild resort throughout the afternoon and evening.

Because of his popularity Manager Coughlin has contracted with Mr. Berger to give his acts every afternoon and evening this week, and he may stay longer. Berger's most sensational feat is his dive from a platform 125 feet high into the Zoo lake. He also rides a bicycle down the chutes.

seem to leap ahead of the conflagration as though the air itself is in flames. The heat is intense and many of the fire fighters have gone down ahead of it.

A correspondent at Michel wires as follows:

"There is now some hope of saving the business section of the town and every available man is on duty. Premier Campbell has arrived from the Sparwood district on a handcar, with three men, all of whom are badly burned. They made an attempt to save the property of the Sparwood Lumber company, half way between here and Fernie, but without avail. They were at once taken to the hospital, two of them in a precarious condition.

Party of Thirty Perishes.

"Mr. Forester, manager of the mill, with his wife and about thirty men, when last seen were trying to save the mill. A line of flames cut them off from escape to the east and unless they have been able to get through to the west, all are dead, for the country is like a furnace. On the way, the party found the body of Peter Miller, lying on the Canadian Pacific railroad. He had succumbed to wounds received while trying to escape from the fire. The bodies of four men were brought here by a Great Northern yard engine. These men had lost their lives trying to save the Great Northern bridge across the Elk river, 15 miles south of here. They had kept up the fight till their return was cut off and lost their lives in vain attempt to escape. The Great Northern tried to open communication to the south, but the destruction of two bridges has cut them off absolutely.

"Reports from Hosmer say that it has burned with great loss of life, but this lacks confirmation.

"A Canadian Pacific engine and train is being held in readiness here in case it is necessary to abandon the town and with communication open to the east, there is not much danger of more loss of life here. There are 5,000 people here, many of whom are camping on a small plain north of the town. Being at the end of the valley, the danger there is not so great."

CRANBROOK, B. C., Aug. 3.—W. Carswell, assistant superintendent of the Great Northern railway, arrived here from Fernie tonight. He made his way out at great risk. Part of the trip was made on a handcar and the balance on foot. Every stick of timber along the line is burned and not a living thing is left. The bodies of Peter Miller and Louis Fratina, a section hand, have been brought in and four unknown Italians have been found. Mr. and Mrs. Forester and 25 men have arrived at Campbells siding, having been forced to give up their fight to save the Sparwood mill. Five members of the party succumbed.

Starvation Added to Terrors.

Starvation has been added to other terrors. When the people left their homes for the protection camps little or no provisions were taken and now there are some six thousand on the prairies with nothing to eat.

The mayor of Fernie has sent out a call for assistance which is being rapidly responded to.

From the border of the burning area to the destroyed towns there is no means of communication except on foot or by mule team.

The bridges are out and the trains hemmed in by the burning forest. Distribution ranges are being organized and these will go through as soon as it is possible. The Canadian Pacific railway line is open to Michel from the east and to Morrissey from the west, leaving a gap of 16 miles.

Rough estimates place the financial loss at $3,000,000 and the loss of life at over a hundred.

A special received here at 11 o'clock tonight from Nelson, B. C., places the number of dead around Fernie alone at 70 to 100.

The death list may be double this number. The population of the stricken towns, according to latest figures is as follows: Elko, 400; Fernie, 6,000; Michel, 1,800; Hosmer, 1,000; Coal Creek, 1,500; Morrissey, 100.

The Crows Nest Pass country in this vicinity is the richest in the Dominion.

NELSON, B. C., Aug. 3.—Advices received here are that the Canadian Pacific loss amounts to approximately half a million.

It is reported that the Great Northern bridge at Hosmer, B. C., is now burning, also 160 cars of coke and coal.

The fire is spreading to Coal Creek, a town of 1,500 inhabitants.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 3.—A special to the Oregonian from Vancouver, B. C., says:

"A report from Cranbrook, the first station west of Fernie, says that 61 men and two women were burned to death in No. 4 logging camp of the Elk Lumber company. The camp was surrounded by fire and not a single person escaped.

Hundreds of refugees are being sent through from Fernie to Cranbrook tonight.

lieve that there is not enough of the business to warrant our taking any chances of injury to our inland or domestic business."

"What will be done with your ships that have been engaged in the oriental trade?"

"Well, we have been carrying mostly air in those boats, and I suppose that we can continue to do so. The Japanese would like to control the Pacific trade and eventually they may."

The German fishers brought in during the last season 315,000 tons of herring, valued at $2,000,000.

Sports That Are New

VICTORS ON WAY HOME

AMERICAN ATHLETES BRINGING HOME LAURELS.

Track and Field Sports Reduced to Minimum for Week. Interest in Boat Race.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—With the majority of the American athletes still on the continent, in the British Isles or on the high seas returning home with the laurels they won at the Olympic games at Shepard's Bush, track and field sports again this week will be reduced to a minimum and such as are held will be simply club and interclub affairs. However, the calendar of sports is long and embraces many events of interest.

The motor boats have a full week ahead of them, beginning Monday for this is race week of the Motor Boat club of America. The contests will be decided on Long Island sound, off Huntington. Chief interest is centered in the showing of the two speedy English boats, the Wolsel-Siddeley and Daimler II, which have been sent across the ocean in an endeavor to take back the British international cup formerly known as the Harmsworth trophy which was won last year by the Dixie. The Dixie II, the Den and the U. S. A., the American defenders, are in prime condition for the races against the British flyers.

The feature of the week for the sailing yachts will be the commencement of the New York Yacht club's annual cruise and races. Numerous tennis championships will be decided during the week. On Monday a tournament will be begun at Tacoma for the seventh annual Pacific Northwest championship.

The Gentlemen of Philadelphia Cricket team this week will invade Ireland with a hope of better success than they have met with in England.

The annual invitation tornament of the Shinnicock Golf club begins Thursday and runs through to Saturday.

PLAIN "BILL" SUITS TAFT.

Willie after a happening one day at college. We roomed together on the top floor of Farnam Hall, our room was just over the middle entrance. [illegible] He had gone out and forgotten to take with him a book he wanted. He came back to the entrance and looking up on the outside yelled 'Oh, Willie.' Well, in a second there was a head out of every one of the 400 windows, and it seemed to me as though everyone yelled at once. At any rate there was one long chorus of 'Oh, Willie.' That cured Harry. He has called me 'Bill' ever since."

"How about the 400 students?"

"Oh, they called me Bill just the same. You see I weighed 200 then."

Mr. and Mrs. Taft attended services at St. Lukes church today and listened to a sermon by Rev. John G. Scott.

"Go up and eat, for the journey is too long for you," was the text from Second Kings, from which Dr. Scott drew the lesson that frequent spiritual food was as necessary for the present-day Christian-day life as was the literal command to Elijah, which he had quoted.

Bart McCleary, second assistant postmaster general and candidate for Congress who has just returned from a review of the situation in Minnesota and Wisconsin, spent Sunday here. Mr. McCleary assures Mr. Taft that in his opinion the Republican situation in Minnesota is in excellent shape. It is his belief that Governor Johnson will not be a candidate for re-election.

In Wisconsin, Mr. McCleary says, he can see the good effect of the speech of acceptance already. The handling by Judge Taft of the railroad question, he says, has pleased the La Follette wing of the party in that state.

Prairie, 10,000 feet, and the Rio Grande, 45,000 feet.

Filings Held Up.

The secretary of the interior has heretofore held up filings for reservoir sites which were filed subsequent to March 1, 1903. He gave as the reason for not placing his O. K. on them that a treaty which the United States government had made with the republic of Mexico prevented him from taking any other action. The United States government has promised Mexico that sufficient water to irrigate 40,000 acres of land in Mexico will be permitted to flow down the Rio Grande river.

The government proposed to construct a large reservoir on the Rio Grande river in New Mexico for the purpose of supplying the shortage of water to Mexico, and at the same time impound water for the reclamation of a large acreage of land in Texas.

The residents of San Luis valley object strenuously to this. They say that private capital should not be denied the right to build reservoirs just because the government wishes to build reservoirs on the same stream. They also allege that an act of Congress passed in 1891 gives them the right to reservoir sites, and that the secretary of the interior has no discretion in the matter. All he can do is to approve or disapprove the maps and charts filed with him. As the head of a bureau he cannot legislate. That remains for Congress. He has, the San Luis valley people allege, failed to obey the law in not approving maps for numerous reservoir sites in the valley.

BUNKOMEN WERE BUNKOED.

Wichita (Kan.) Dispatch to New York Tribune.

J. J. Savage, a ranch owner of Amarillo, Tex., came to this city to bet $3,500 on a "fixed" horse race. He has fled back to Texas with his own money and $500 belonging to the four men who tried to fleece him. He brought draft here to wager on the race. After Savage cashed the draft the bunko men gave him $500 of their money to wager, thinking to convince him that the deal was all right.

Before the wager was made a friend gave the Texan a tip, however, and he and his wife hired a motor car, drove from the city to Wellington and took a train home. Mrs. Savage took charge of her husband's $3,500 and the bunkomen's $500.

Missouri marketed 107,155,858 dozens of eggs last year, for which was received more than $16,000,000.

SYMBOL OF PERSEVERANCE.

A young man, not yet out of school, who intends to make electricity a specialty, with a view to business when his school days are over, recently received from an uncle a piece of the 1858 Atlantic cable, with a note containing the following memorandum: "It will be 50 years on August 17 since the dream of the Atlantic telegraph cable became a reality. I remember the great event perfectly well. Every window in our house was illuminated with tiny candles, and there was rejoicing everywhere. In every house there was a copy of the 90-word message which Queen Victoria sent to President Buchanan. It was a great achievement, even if it did take more than an hour to send the message. I remember going with my father on board the Niagara, which, with the English warship Agamemnon, laid the cable. There we got the four-inch piece which I send you herewith. I think it doubly valuable because Cyrus Field handled it while he spoke to my father about it. I send it to you as a symbol of perseverance the quality which, when prompted by good judgment, must lead to success."

Societies and Clubs

The following meetings of the various branches of the Loyal Temperance legion are scheduled for this week, all meetings to be held at 9 o'clock in the morning: East Side at Boulder street chapel on Tuesday; Hillside at the Hillside chapel on Wednesday; Roswell at the Roswell church on Thursday, and Colorado City at the W. C. T. U. hall on Friday. A general invitation is extended for all of these meetings. The Roswell legion will give a free entertainment Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

A meeting of the members of the local W. R. C. will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in G. A. R. hall to welcome the department president, Mrs. H. E. Lehow of Denver, who will be present.

Mayflower council No. 2, Daughters of America, will meet this evening at 7:30 o'clock at Robbins hall. Officers are requested to be prompt for practice. Deputy National Organizer D. E. Watkin of Pueblo will be present to assist in the work.

CHIEF WOLFE A SPRINTER

Catches His Man After 100-Yard Dash After Train.

"I'll not pay you and you can't make me. They are too slow in this town to get me," was the answer Harry Mason, a young man who recently came here from Indiana, made to his landlady, Mrs. Agnes Wallace of Colorado City, when she asked him yesterday morning for $15, the amount he owed her for board and room.

"I'll tell Chief Wolfe on you," said the landlady after all other means of making her delinquent guest pay up had failed.

"He can't run fast enough to get me," was Mason's jocular reply, and he at once proceeded to make good his boast by "hitting" an outbound freight for Denver. In the meantime Chief Wolfe had been notified by telephone and hurried at once to the yards in time to see Mason making his run for the train. The train was already on the move, but Wolfe, by a sprint of 100 yards which, he claims, broke the record, managed to seize the young Indianan by the leg and pulled him clear of the wheels just as he was about to disappear beneath the box car. Mason was taken to the city jail and will be tried in the police court today on a charge of attempting to beat a board bill.

Since coming to Colorado City, about three weeks ago, Mason has been working as a laborer at the Golden Cycle mill.

It is possible to make the trip from New York to Washington with a horse and buggy; but a train is quicker, cheaper and more comfortable.

Likewise, it is entirely possible to wash clothes with ordinary laundry soap, but P. & G. Naphtha Soap is quicker, cheaper and very much easier.

P. & G. Naphtha is the modern soap. It is as much better than ordinary laundry soap as a "Limited" train is better than a horse and buggy.

P. & G. Naphtha Soap saves time; and time is money.

It saves fuel; and fuel costs money.

The woman who does her own work owes it to herself to try P. & G. Naphtha Soap. If, by using it, she is able to get through her washing an hour sooner than it now takes, it will have paid for itself four or five times over. It will do that—and MORE.

SPEEDING MUST STOP

MANY AUTO OWNERS TO APPEAR IN COURT.

Chief Reynolds Claims to Have Evidence Against Forty-six Offenders.

An unpleasant surprise for the automobile men of this city will be sprung this morning by Chief of Police W. S. Reynolds, when no less than 46 will be called on to appear in the police court and give reasons why they have been exceeding the speed limit or running their machines without proper lights. For the last three days the chief has had plain clothes men on the alert for the festive buzz buggies with excessive speed propensities, and the result has been that he has now a list of 46 names, including many of the most prominent men in this city, and claims to have the necessary information to convict them of violating some of the clauses of the ordinance relating to the running of autos. None of the men will be apprised of the fact by the police department until 9 o'clock this morning, but about that hour things will be apprised of the fact by the world, and it is expected there will be a procession of cars to the police station, for within the same half hour the entire number will be notified, if possible.

"We are determined to enforce the automobile ordinance in this city," said Chief Reynolds yesterday, "and the present campaign is only a starter. The ordinance is very liberal to the auto men in every respect, and they have no excuse for either exceeding the speed limit or running without lights, as many of them have been doing. We will push the case against every man to the limit, and see if we can bring the violators of the law to their senses."

ARMED CONFLICT IS IMPROBABLE

tors of inquiry that Minister DeRues sent the following letter, which was published in May, 1908, bulletin F. Hou en Trouw society of Amsterdam:

"Caracas, April 9, 1908.

"Referring to your letter of the 24th of February, I am sorry to inform you that the present time is anything but favorable for business. The system of government (since 1899) of the present almost dictatorial ruling president, which is economically for the creation and afterwards for the annulment of monopolies through all kinds of subtleties, has very nearly ruined the country. The only ray of light in these dark days through which Venezuela struggles, is the price of cocoa, but this is not sufficient to make the future hopeful.

"A good part of the import and export trade in Venezuela is in the hands of Germans, who engage their employes in Europe, chiefly at Hamburg. These young men come out generally on a n contract for three years, after the expiration of which they either return or, according to their fitness, gain advancement where they are. Firms sometimes engage young men from this country, who are nearly all born here or come from Curacao, but they very seldom reach high places. It is of great importance to the German firms to have new and strong European employes in their offices, that their energy may never be dormant.

"I know personally nearly all the chiefs of the various large firms here, and I often speak with them concerning business. I do not believe, however, that you should entertain the idea, especially in the present circumstances, of placing young men from the Netherlands here. There is, besides, a desperate competition in imports, especially in the importation of textile and fancy goods by the so-called Turks and Moroccoans.

"Moreover, there is such an uncertain domestic and foreign political situation; to say nothing of the meager prosperity, that it is clear to everybody in this country that the engagement of European employes is out of the question.

"The revival of commercial trade is also impossible, as long as the present government rules the country, for it cannot be expected that the president after the nine years during which he has reigned almost as a dictator, will change his system of governing and his domestic and foreign policy. Those who cannot succeed in acquiring a job in Venezuela through the influence of the Hamburg firms would do much better to try other Central or South American countries where prosperity and progress is greater and the future brighter than in this republic.

(Signed)

"The Minister Resident of the Netherlands.

"DE RUES."

The rumor that the Dutch armored cruiser Jacob Van Heemskerk had been dispatched to Venezuelan waters with hostile purposes, is denied here. It is being well known that the ship is sent out in the ordinary way to relieve the Gelderland, the regular term of service of the latter vessel on this station being about to expire.

WILLEMSTAD, Aug. 3.—The Dutch cruiser Gelderland arrived from La Guaira, Venezuela. Her commander declares that he sent a boat ashore at LaGuaira, with an officer and was refused all means of communication with the shore. The authorities there, he says, declined to accept the letter bags and an official communication to the German minister who is in charge of Dutch interests in Caracas. He reports also that Venezuela is preparing her forces for a defense of the country. It is generally believed here that Holland will take prompt action.

Will Meet in Denver.

In return for the outing and general good time shown the Denver men by the Colorado Springs hotel men in June, Denver yesterday invited the association to hold its annual fall meeting in the capital city, promising all kinds of entertainment, including the second annual "husking bee." Elaborate preparations will be made for the three-days meeting the last week in October.

Resolutions of condolence to Mrs. J. D. Fanning, wife of the former president of the association and proprietor of the Albany, who died in Denver a week ago, were passed.

Those present at the meeting were: S. F. Dutton, Denver, president; F. W. Paget, Denver, vice president; A. H. Stevens, Denver, secretary; J. A. Himebaugh, Colorado Springs, treasurer; H. H. Stevens and George Elstun of Colorado Springs, George Stein and Dave Winton of Denver, and Harry Burnett of Grand Junction, executive committee; V. G. Warner, editor of the Hotel Bulletin; L. P. French, of the New York Hotel Reporter, and A. M. Epstein, secretary of the Brewers and Wholesale Liquor Dealers association and one of the proprietors of the Albany.

The Resolutions.

The resolutions adopted follow:

Believing in the old adage that in unity there is strength; and,

Whereas, The spring elections fully demonstrated the necessity of united action among the different business interests throughout the state to protect the state against adverse legislation; and

Whereas, The hotel men of the state of Colorado, believing that prohibition or local option, as fostered by the Anti-saloon league, would mean incalculable loss to the state of Colorado and her industries; and

Whereas, The Brewers and Wholesale Liquor Dealers association of Colorado has, by its untiring efforts and splendid work, done much to defeat the objects of the Antisaloon league; therefore be it

Resolved, That we, the Rocky Mountain Hotel Men's association, do hereby offer our untiring support to the Brewers and Wholesale Liquor Dealers association in their fight for personal liberty; and be it further

Resolved, That we will do all in our power to assist said association both before election and on election day by voting and having our friends vote only for such legislative candidates and candidates for state offices as are favorable to the cause of liberty, insofar as it affects man's personal liberty, believing each man to be the best judge as to when or what he eats, drinks or wears; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be mailed to each member of our association and that a copy be sent to the secretary of the Brewers and Wholesale Liquor Dealers association.

first signs this evening of the strike was when a number of printers did not put in an appearance at the newspaper offices, and it is feared that half of the journals will be unable to print. Those offices where work is proceeding are surrounded by police in order to ward off attacks by militant laborites. One newspaper, profiting by the lesson of the electric strike in 1897, has placed a large automobile outside its door to supply power to its machinery in case of emergency.

In the Vigneux district, calm continues today. As yet there are few signs of labor troubles spreading, to the provinces, St. Etienne being the only place where a 24-hour strike has been called. This is set for next Thursday.

The organizers of the strike announced late tonight that no manifestations had been arranged for tomorrow either in Paris or at Vigneux, and that the strikers would pass the day in their homes. The police, while taking extraordinary precautions, do not anticipate disorders.

The newspaper quarter, which usually at midnight is astir with life, bears a quiet and deserted aspect. Fifteen newspapers will not appear tomorrow, but the three opposition organs will print.

In view of the fact that police were stationed around the offices of the newspapers, the strikers abandoned their hostile intentions and the night passed without incident. No unionists other than the printers struck tonight.

The World of Books

JOHN SMITH IN FICTION.

"John Smith, Gentleman Adventurer," by C. H. Forbes-Lindsay. The J. B. Lippincott Company, Philadelphia, Publishers. Whitney & Grimwood, Colorado Springs. Price $1.50.

C. H. Forbes-Lindsay's book, "John Smith, Gentleman Adventurer," is essentially a biography. Without the necessity for embellishments of fiction the author takes his hero over two continents and through dangers manifold, yet better even than the adventures is John Smith himself. In describing him one can do no better than to quote the words of one who knew him:

Thus we lost him that in all his proceedings made justice his first guide and experience his second; ever hating baseness, sloth, pride and unworthiness more than dangers; that never allowed more for himself than his soldiers with him; that upon no danger would send them where he would not lead them himself; that would never see us want what he had or by any means could get us; that would rather want than borrow, or starve than not pay; that loved action more than words, and hated falsehood and covetousness worse than death; whose adventures were our lives, and whose loss our deaths.

The book naturally falls into two parts, the first having to do with his early life as a soldier of fortune in Europe, and the second with his experiences as a colonist in America. Avoiding the faults of the historical novel, the author has been able, by reason of the richness of his material, to approach the degree of interest expected of fiction.

"THE LONELY HOUSE."

"The Lonely House," by Adolf Streckfuss. Translated by Mrs. A. L. Wister. The J. B. Lippincott Company, Philadelphia, Publishers. Whitney & Grimwood, Colorado Springs. Price $1.50.

Mrs. A. L. Wister, the aged sister of Dr. Horace Howard Furness, the Shakespearean scholar, dedicates her latest translation from the German—"the last I shall ever complete—to the children and grandchildren of those who kindly welcomed the first." Mrs. Wister is now 77 years old. A generation ago she was the most widely-known translator in the country.

This time she presents "The Lonely House," a romantic novel from her favorite German author, Adolf Streckfuss. The rather simple tale is told by a professor of entomology who goes from Berlin to the wild mountain regions of the southern Ukraine and finds himself suddenly involved in a local feud and a murder mystery. A man has been killed in the Lonely House, and the professor has seen the young hero of the story coming from that direction with a wounded hand. The district judge, to whom he reports these facts, also acts suspiciously. The mystery reaches its climax while these three are exploring a dangerous cave. Somebody cuts the rope on which the professor is being lowered into an abyss. In due time there follows the conviction of the real villain and the prospective sound of wedding bells.

The story is one of only mild merit, pleasantly told, charmingly translated, with three pretty illustrations in color.

A BOOK ON AFRICA.

"The Congo and the Coasts of Africa," by Richard Harding Davis. Charles Scribner's Sons, New York, Publishers. Whitney & Grimwood, Colorado Springs. Price $1.50.

Mr. Davis writes an interesting story, as always, but this one is not likely to create a great rush of colonists to the land he describes. The only place he finds that requires any commendatory adjectives is Zanzibar. He "fell in love with Zanzibar at first sight," and he declares that "it is the busiest and the brightest and richest in color of all the ports along the East African coast," which, after all, perhaps, is not extravagant praise. Nevertheless, the reader will agree with him that the trip "was certainly worth taking once," and he has not failed to make that apparent. He begins with the west coast, one of the places which civilization "has chosen to ignore." Referring to the coast line of protectorates he writes: "To partition finally among the Powers of this strip of death and disease, of unaccountable wealth, of unnamed horrors and cruelties, has taken many hundreds of years, has brought to the black man every misery that can be inflicted upon a human being, and to thousands of white men, death and degradation or great wealth."

While Mr. Davis discovers nothing new in the Congo, no writer has set forth more vividly or has denounced more forcefully the rule of Leopold in the Congo, "and the most remarkable feature of it is that the man who made this claim (that he owns the Congo) is the man who was placed over the Congo as a guardian, to keep it open to the trade of the world, to suppress slavery." The author shows in detail how this "one man stole a march on fourteen Powers, including the United States, and stole also an empire of one million square miles." In seven years the natives have brought in rubber worth $55,000,000. "Were the Congo properly managed it would be one of the richest territories on the surface of the earth." The author offers some information which should be interesting to the American syndicate which recently has secured concessions in the Congo. He learns that the land ceded is of no value, that Leopold abandoned it as unprofitable, and he believes that if the king of the Belgians cannot get rubber there no one else can.

"THE VERMILION PENCIL"

"The Vermilion Pencil," by Homer Lea. The McClure Company, New York, Publishers. Whitney & Grimwood, Colorado Springs. Price $1.50.

Homer Lea, the author of "The Vermilion Pencil," has done more than to peek over the walls of the Celestial empire; he has burrowed deep underneath and followed the labyrinthine lives of the people, with the result that his novel may very properly be called Chinese. It tells the story of the love of the viceroy's wife for the Breton priest who tutors her behind the lacquered screen, for which she is condemned by "The Vermilion Pencil" to the ghastly punishment called the "lingchee." The victim is bound naked to the crucifix. The first three cuts are called the strokes of mercy. First, the executioner draws his knife across the brow and a fold of skin drops over the eyes, which is merciful, since it shuts out the sneering faces. Then the ears are cut off, which is also merciful, for jeers are no longer heard. The tongue is cut out next, and this is the crowning stroke of mercy, for it stops the victim's piteous cries.

But fortunately for the viceroy's wife, the first stroke of mercy has not been given when the Breton arrives with a vast army he has mysteriously gathered by displaying the Great Symbol on his breast of a monstrous, centuries-old secret organization known as the Deluge Family, which has a prolific progeny in China, we are told, a family so vast that it is beyond our comprehension, and exceed anything ever conceived by man, having its own language and literature and ten and other rituals. When a child of the mysterious Deluge Family needs assistance, he has only to raise his thumb and members of the organization, wherever they are, drop their occupation, loop their queues over their right shoulder and come to his aid, with the cry "Hung Shun Tien"—the Deluge obeys Heaven.

At the first cry, beggars peep out from their holes, thieves from their hiding, merchants from their guided shops, hucksters put down their trays and scholars their pens; young and old, from mansions, cellars, hovels, and holes, silently and mysteriously obey the call. The description of this secret organization in China is one of the most impressive things in the story, the author having been able to touch the reader's imagination with something of its vastness and terror and power. Much of the language in which the love story is told is pure poetry, and altogether the story reveals a new writer of rare talents.

"THE POLITICIAN"

"The Politician," by Antonio Fogazzaro. Translated by G. Mantellino. The John W. Luce Company, Boston, Publishers. Whitney & Grimwood, Colorado Springs. Price $1.50.

As the American public becomes better acquainted with the works of the great Italian author, he is better liked and appreciated. While he has, as is natural, suffered something in the translation, the work has been so well done that traces of the author's genius remain. An American reader finds his mind wanders somewhat in reading these translations, as all foreign writers appear to put emphasis on certain small details that an English author merely refers to. It is thus the difference in method that causes many to declare they cannot read with understanding or pleasure many of the works translated.

In "The Politician" the translator has kept all of the author's story. It is told with a sort of naivete, yet with a freshness that does not altogether conceal the boldest strokes. The denouement is not entirely satisfactory to the novel reader, though it is artistic and naturally the sequence of the positions in which the characters have been placed by circumstance.

"LITTLE DINNERS WITH THE SPHINX"

"Little Dinners With the Sphinx," by Richard Le Gallienne. Moffat, Yard and Company, New York, Publishers. Hardy's, Colorado Springs. Price $1.25 net.

The Sphinx in question evidently is a charming woman, and during the course of the four "little dinners" chronicled, she and the chronicler strike many flashes of wit and poetic fire from their mutual enjoyment of life's varied good things. Some of the "other prose fancies" bound between the same covers are of slight and fantastic order, though all are distinguished by the tender thought and underlying humanity that endears La Gallienne even to those not ordinarily fond of such dreamy productions. "My Castle in Spain" delightfully expresses ideas and longings such as we have all known upon occasion. "Once-Upon-a-Time" has similar distinction. "Eva, the Woodland and I" and "The Little Joys of Margaret" also lie close to universal experience. But, after all—perhaps because the "little dinner" motive somehow clings closely—the book's summing up brings back to the idea of a literary syllabub. It is daintily prepared, exquisitely flavored, but is suited only to the lingering and not highly necessary conclusion of an otherwise hearty meal.

"THE QUEEN'S COMPANY."

"The Queen's Company," by Sara Hawks Sterling. The J. B. Lippincott Company, Philadelphia, Publishers. Hardy's, Colorado Springs. Price $1.50.

"The Queen's Company," by Sara Hawks Sterling, is a natural story of a half-dozen girls in their last year at school, who are ambitious to give "As You Like It" at commencement. They are good healthy girls, fond of a good time, a laugh always ready at the least provocation, and yet devoted to their teachers and attentive in their studies. Even the irrepressible Kitty, who enlivened each day with some unexpected prank, would make sincere promises to reform, that she might graduate with her class. The story's best claim to consideration is its freedom from affectation.

"ROSALIND AT THE RED GATE."

"Rosalind at the Red Gate," by Meredith Nicholson. The Bobbs-Merrill Company, Indianapolis, Publishers. Hardy's, Colorado Springs. Price $1.50.

The scene is laid near that of "The House of a Thousand Candles," and there is much the same mystery and swift action as in the former book. The plot hinges on a curious stipulation that a large sum of money shall be transferred to one of the brothers at the end of a certain time, the decision as to which is worthy of it to be given by their sister. The story tells of the efforts of one of the brothers to obtain this money, and has to do with two very beautiful girls, a delightful old lady and some interesting men.

"UNDER THE CRUST."

"Under the Crust," by Thomas Nelson Page. Charles Scribner's Sons, New York, Publishers. Hardy's, Colorado Springs. Price $1.50.

A number of the best short stories Thomas Nelson Page has written in recent years are gathered in a prettily bound book that will catch the eye of the shopper. Fortunately in this case the inside is even better than the exterior. Most of the stories have been read by followers of Scribner's magazine. In the book are "A Brother to Diogenes," "The New Agent," "Miss Godwin's Inheritance," "My Friend, the Doctor," "Leander's Light" and "A Goth." There is an undying charm in every story that falls from the pen of Thomas Nelson Page. Every one of these little tales holds that charm in strong degree.

"THE SANDMAN; HIS SHIP STORIES."

"The Sandman: His Ship Stories," by William J. Hopkins. L. C. Page & Company, Boston, Publishers. Hardy's, Colorado Springs. Price $1.50.

For tiny lads whose imaginative journeys lead them down to the sea is "The Sandman: His Ship Stories," by William John Hopkins. Here youthful would-be sailors may read and realize their dreams. After an account of the building of a ship the book tells of the rigging, the launching, ship's voyages, about pirates, castaways, about a deserted vessel and always about the doings of the captain's little boys. The story is told in a dreamy, whimsical way, well calculated to please children, fancy and this spirit is preserved in the illustrations, which are pen-and-ink drawings by Diantha W. Horn.

"THE HAUNTERS OF THE SILENCES."

"The Haunters of the Silences," by Charles G. D. Roberts. L. C. Page and Company, Boston, Publishers. Whitney & Grimwood, Colorado Springs. Price $1.50.

Some of the critics have declared that Mr. Roberts glosses over much of his narrative, giving to animals higher kinds of courage and better sort of reasoning than they really possess. This new volume is not open to any such criticism. It relates in the author's best manner scraps between animals and between hunter and hunted. In many of them man has a part, usually as a spectator, or as one who steps in to end a quarrel or to assist the weaker. All of the tales are told in the richest fancy of the author. The work is plentifully illustrated by pictures that do illustrate. Altogether the work is one that any nature lover can enjoy, and is in a style to fit the finest library.

THE INDEPENDENCE LEAGUE VOTE.

JUST what part Mr. Hearst's Independence League will play in the coming election is a question that is worrying a good many politicians nowadays, but it is perfectly safe to say that it is worrying the Democrats far more than it is the Republicans. It is a well-known fact that Bryan was very anxious to have the League's indorsement, and made overtures to Hearst for that purpose, but the Yellow Kid couldn't see it that way. Perhaps he thinks that Bryan did not support his candidacy for the Democratic Presidential nomination with enough enthusiasm four years ago.

The Independence League is sure to derive a large majority of its votes from the Democratic party. Most of its leaders, including Hearst, are former Democrats of the Bryanistic type, but the savage attack in the convention on the delegate who tried to nominate Bryan shows that the Nebraskan has no hold on them now whatever. They claim to have a large following in Boston and in New York state, especially in New York City, and this claim is conceded by experienced leaders of the other parties. So far as Massachusetts is concerned nobody supposes that Bryan has any chance there anyway, so a Democratic defection to Hisgen is not needed to help Taft.

HEARST'S INFLUENCE IN NEW YORK. But Chairman Mack and other Bryan leaders are claiming the Empire State as fighting ground. If this is true—though there is no good reason to suppose that it is—the Hearst movement is sure to affect the result most seriously. Two years ago Hearst, as candidate for Governor on the Democratic ticket, was defeated only by the timely intervention of President Roosevelt speaking through Secretary Root. Of course he had the support of the regular Democratic organization which he cannot command for his candidate now, but the fact is undeniable that he is popular and commands a large following among a certain class of voters in New York State, nearly all of whom are ordinarily Democrats. Most of these are in New York City and the other manufacturing towns of the state and his papers are about the only ones they read. That they will be strongly influenced by his appeals for Hisgen is a certainty, and nine-tenths of the votes thus gained for the Independence candidate will be drawn from Bryan.

Another factor that will make strongly for Republican success in New York is the determination of Governor Hughes to be a candidate for a second term. Hughes is almost invincible; the party bosses hate him but they are afraid to come out in the open. Nobody seriously believes that he will or can be defeated for the nomination, and if nominated his election is a foregone conclusion. With Hughes at the head of the state ticket and Hisgen drawing Democratic votes away from Bryan it is hard to see how Chairman Mack's optimism is justified.

IMMIGRATION AND RETURNING PROSPERITY.

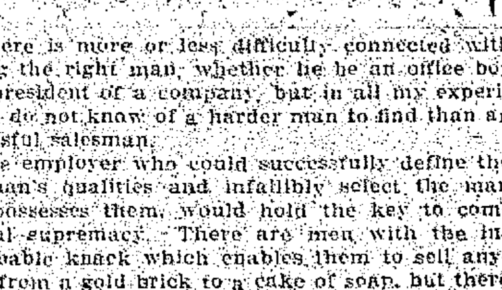

ONE of the first effects of the panic last fall was a rush of emigration to Europe which has not yet ended. Thousands of foreigners, suddenly thrown out of employment in the factories and railroads throughout the country and realizing that it would be a long time before conditions improved enough to permit their return to work, took passage for home. They were of the unattached class that constitutes probably a majority of our total immigration—people who come here not in search of homes but of the high wages paid by American industrialism. They stay only so long as the pay continues, meanwhile sending a large part of their earnings abroad, and at last, when they have accumulated what to them is a competency, or when employment fails, they go back to their former homes to live in relative luxury.

Figures compiled by Immigration Commissioner Watchorn at New York covering the [illegible] June 30, show that in the period named there was an actual excess of emigration over immigration, approximately 600,000 aliens having left our shores as compared with 586,000 who arrived. The decline of immigration as compared with the preceding year is remarkable, no fewer than 1,116,000 aliens having come to this country in the year ended June 30, 1907. This falling off was of course due to the knowledge that work was not to be had here. The immigration station at Ellis Island is the truest barometer of industrial conditions, the tide of immigration rising or falling as the demand for labor is brisk or dull.

But now it is reported that a heavy influx is to occur, soon as 600,000 Europeans, or as many as left during the last year, having already booked return passage. Evidently the foreigners in America keep their friends across the sea well informed as to industrial conditions here, and have already reported to them that better times are in sight. Unquestionably they are right, but the revival of business certainly is not such as to justify a wholesale importation of labor as is indicated by the steamship bookings. There are still countless thousands of unemployed in the country and many of the largest employers, such as the Carnegie Steel Company, have announced a policy of taking on native Americans first. This means that the 600,000 aliens now on their way will find the door of opportunity closed to them, as it was when they left last fall, unless in the meantime conditions have materially changed.

THE TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

AN annual gathering whose importance is not generally noticed by the people of the city, because it passes off so quietly, will begin at the High School building today, when teachers from the Fifth Normal District of Colorado will meet for their yearly institute. Sessions will continue for two weeks, and as a result, between 200 and 300 people from out of the city are brought to Colorado Springs for that length of time, and in many cases several days longer. This is a considerable item in the summer's tourist business, to say nothing of the importance of the meetings from an educational standpoint. To the people of Colorado Springs the lectures on topics of importance are also open, and it is the hope of those in charge that as many local people as possible will avail themselves of the opportunity.

LOOKING TO THE FUTURE.

From the Boston Herald.

Neither Mr. Bryan's smile of approval nor Mr. Gompers' plaintive plea for the interests of labor have been successful in the attempted wooing of the Independence party to the Denver ticket. Mr. Debs maintains his right of leadership against the claims of the Peerless One, and Tom Watson of the Populist declares that the Nebraskan is a pretender. Evidently the leaders of the minor parties think that this is a good year to remain in the middle of the road. An independent show of strength this year in its effect upon the possibilities in the reorganization of the radical element in 1912 is considered of greater importance than the vague possibilities of success under the Denver ticket.

PLAY FAIR!

From the Baltimore News.

No matter what his nationality, every lover of clean, honest sport will feel a deep regret that anything like unfairness should have crept into the Olympic contests now in progress in England. A tug-of-war or any other game that is won by unfair means can be no credit to the winner, and it is a painful surprise, indeed, to learn that the offenders yesterday were our sport-loving British cousins—the last people on earth to countenance such a thing, much less to participate in it. If future Olympic games are to be the success that those in the past have been, the international committee should see that this business is promptly and vigorously suppressed. As soon as it becomes a case of "anything to win," the Olympic games, the most interesting athletic events of the world, will be ruined, and what a pity that would be!

HIGHWAYS AS MEMORIALS.

From the New York Evening Post.

The Washington Post comments with favor upon the proposal for two national highways, one from Washington to Mt. Vernon as a memorial to Washington, the other from Washington to Gettysburg, as a memorial to Lincoln. A tribute to the memory of these men more worthy of public support could scarcely be suggested. A national highway would be a most appropriate symbol of the great pioneers who made the rough places plain for their countrymen. But if such roads are to be built, provision must be made to keep them in perfect repair. Roads fit to honor Washington and Lincoln must be model roads to begin with, and model roads forever. It is easy enough in a fit of enthusiasm to lay out a fine, broad thoroughfare; to maintain the road is what requires expense and eternal vigilance. Many of our most admired boulevards are constantly in a disreputable condition, because the automobiles tear them up much more rapidly than the mending progresses. We can never have highways to compare with the French or German till we get over our extravagant habit of working a road to death and then buying a new one. A memorial highway that should teach us true economy in maintenance would in itself be a valuable public investment.

SUPREMACY IN THE PACIFIC.

From the New York Times.

Is it the Socialist regime or the climate that promotes the efflorescence of the immigration in New Zealand? An Auckland dispatch to our neighbor, The Herald, says that Sir Joseph G. Ward, the premier of the colonial government, spoke eloquently on Monday in justifying the expenditure of the fund raised for entertaining our battleship fleet. We are one of the great sea powers, he declared; we are on friendly terms with Great Britain, and spend £50,000,000 annually in trade with the empire. He continued:

The day will come when a great fight will be necessary for the supremacy of the white races in the Pacific, and when this time comes, Great Britain can have the assistance of the American fleet, and the two nations will be found fighting shoulder to shoulder to preserve to future generations the rights and privileges due to all classes.

Hands across one sea, allied fleets upon the other. It is a beautiful picture—somewhat darkened, though, by the shadow of a certain treaty of alliance between Great Britain and Japan, concluded with remarkable ineptitude, as many Americans and Englishmen thought, at the moment when Russia and Japan were agreeing to a treaty of peace in Portsmouth, New Hampshire, one of the states of this Union.

OSMAN PASHA.

From the New Orleans Times-Democrat.

By the passing of Osman Pasha the sultan has lost the one soldier who, in the war with Russia thirty years ago, was able to carry the crescent to victory, despite the incurable rottenness of the Turkish regime. Though the heroic defense of Plevna did not alter the ultimate outcome of the conflict, yet that tremendous feat of arms did much to safeguard the remnant of the Moslem empire. It was felt that a race so virile must, despite all its faults, be accorded the respect which is born of fear. The dead marshal was a Turk of the old school—ignorant in the modern sense, but learned in the lore of the strategists who have marched to victory when mere tacticians would have stumbled to defeat. He was thus the type of the Turkish soldier—brave, abstemious and patient—who lost none of his prowess since the days of the prophet. But mere valor does not count now as it once did, else the padishah would not hold sway on sufferance of the infidel.

Death was, probably, most kind in Osman's case, since a longer life must have brought a crowning humiliation in the complete overthrow of Turkey on this side of the Bosporus. His was the good fortune of Stonewall Jackson, who was spared Appomattox—of Desaix, who saw Marengo, but did not see Waterloo.

FAIRNESS.

From Collier's.

A second tribute to Grover Cleveland showed President Roosevelt's deep-lying judgment again. His appreciation after Cleveland's death was one of the best put forth, and contrasted nobly with the cowardly shuffling at Denver. His renaming of a national forest reserve for the Democrat who worked so sternly for our national resources was a still further proof of broad-mindedness. These instances of fair thought, transcending party lines, are always welcome. His conspicuously just treatment of Cleveland deserves to rank high among President Roosevelt's recent acts, and will contribute, like his abnegation for Taft, in support of his given word—and like his forest policy, in spite of western voters—to build for posterity the figure of one who was not only a popular idol, but also a large and generous servant of the truth. Of course he makes mistakes. A man all of whose thinking is done aloud, and many of whose acts are experimental, must often be in error, but the President usually backs water when he is wrong and persists when he is right.

There is need in a free government for many kinds of men. We may realize that Charles William Eliot was the ideal man to meet the rowing situation before the last race between Yale and Harvard, and yet understand at the same time how enormously valuable a citizen Theodore Roosevelt is. The more kinds of value we are able to appreciate in our public men, the more wholesome is our outlook, the sweeter is our public life. Happily, partisanship is every year less bitter.

THE MAN AND HIS JOB

By Herbert J. Hapgood

There is more or less difficulty connected with finding the right man, whether he be an office boy or a president of a company, but in all my experience I do not know of a harder man to find than an successful salesman.

The employer who could successfully define the salesman's qualities and infallibly select the man who possesses them, would hold the key to commercial supremacy. There are men with the indescribable knack which enables them to sell anything from a gold brick to a cake of soap, but there is no outward sign by which they may be recognized. Often the good talker with imposing personality and winning manners fails at the psychological moment, when the sale should be consummated; while the man of uncouth appearance, who presents his case hatingly, can "knock the apple off the tree" whenever he attempts to make a sale. The qualities by which a salesman interests a buyer and commands his confidence are too subtle to be described.

The one thing certain about good salesmen is that there are not half enough of them to go round. Demands for them are constant and hard to fill.

This scarcity of good salesmen is a serious matter, for the success of every business depends upon the efficiency of its sales department. No matter how well organized a company's office may be, or how cheaply the factory may be able to turn out goods, it will not be long in the running unless it has facilities for creating steadily increasing markets, and the secret of a large percentage of business failures is to be found in a weak sales department.

Today's Horoscope

Monday, August 3, 1908.

The war-like spirit of Mars the planet of fortune doth touch.
He that playeth his part with power profiteth much.

Mars and Jupiter occupy brightly promising positions in benefic aspect to the moon on this 216th day.

The planet of fortune and the planet of martial energy thus combined in favorable configuration are augured to exercise a spirited influence on all vigorous human efforts.

The beneficial condition is particularly favorable up to 5 p. m.

A lucky day to begin in new positions, undertake new duties or commence new business of any kind.

Deal with merchants, salesmen, bankers, brokers and agents.

Begin journeys in pursuit of profit.

"A good day for dealings with books."

Write important letters. Buy what has long been desired.

Consult medical men and specialists in these twenty-four hours.

A good day for all household affairs.

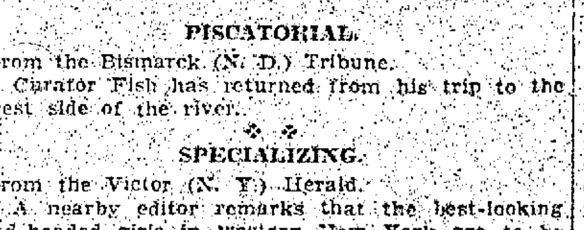

At 12:30 p. m. there will be a good time to deal with herbs under Mars—aloes, wormwood, rhubarb, horseradish and gentian.

At 12:50 p. m. balsam, betony, sage and bloodwort, herbs under Jupiter, will be potent. At 4:20 p. m. herbs under the moon—wintergreen, cress, loose strife, saxifrage and coral wort, will be best.

Letters or young people may annoy women with their birthdate today. The unwed will be wooed.

Men with this birthdate have a prosperous year indicated, but there is a change or travel ahead of them with unseen outcome.

The aspect under which children are born today is unsettled. Girls will probably be inclined to fickleness and will love change. Boys will be inclined to alter their resolution frequently, but will have luck in business notwithstanding, if they can get down to some definite purpose.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITY.

From the Edgefield (S. C.) Advertiser.

Unless a laundry is established in Edgefield our people will have to wear fewer clothes or wear them longer. If some wear any fewer garments than they do now, their immediate arrest will follow, and to be forced to wear them for a longer period, especially in midsummer, would be a calamity. So, what's to be done?

A PICNIC IN OLD KENTUCKY.

From the Hyden (Ky.) Thousandsticks.

To be fair the picnic for the most part of the day was an ideal picnic. Before noon the program was carried out and a good many things of interest was said by the speakers. The noon hour passed off quietly, but along toward evening the booze fighters become very hilarious and it seemed that some people had come there for no other purpose but to scrap.

It seems that somewhere and somehow that some of our officers are failing to do their duty when a crowd of drunken men are allowed to shoot-up and cut-up and disturb a picnic in such a manner. If this is continually permitted at our public gatherings the idea will grow in the law violating element that they are not to be checked in their amusement and the officers will have a much harder job quelling them than if they had took charge of them at the beginning.

IN STRATTON PARK.

Beneath a grand old mountain pine,
In cool, damp shade by sunlight crowned,
This morning in sweet autumn time
My hammock in the fragrant air
Swings softly 'bove the mellow ground.

Far over head on silent wing,
A blue-bird darts with restless cries,
His turdy mate he shrilly calls,
Thro' space aslant he falls and seems
A fragrant from the azure skies.

A soft wind from the mountain floats,
And thro' the tree-tops gently stirs,
And sends the long, brown needles down
Thro' checkered lights of shade and sun,
And rattling of the falling burrs.

Near by o'er rocks and reeds and ferns,
The canon spills its silvery stream;
The tinkling of the waterfall,
Half sad, half soothing to my ear,
With music fills my idle dream.

The rasping of the cricket's song,
A minor note of sadness lends,
To swishing of the seeded grass,
A far-off wood-dove's sobbing call
Brings tender thoughts of absent friends.

FIGHT FOR OFFICIAL SPOILS.

So-called Revolution in Honduras Nothing But a Selfish Struggle

From the Baltimore American.

"British Honduras, which has been my home for the past four years, knows little and cares less for the revolutionary disturbances in the neighboring republic of Honduras," said Mr. J. Robert Boatman, of Belize. Mr. Boatman is a former Kentuckian, who went to the British colony aforesaid to engage in the mahogany trade, and who has prospered greatly in his adopted country.

"British Honduras," he continued, "is a small English possession of some 700 square miles, and has a population of about 40,000 people, all of whom, except, say 500, are negroes. The chief source of wealth lies in the fine forests of mahogany and logwood, but at present only the mahogany trade is profitable. There is still plenty of that magnificent timber, which in many respects is the best on earth, but each year sees a considerable diminution in the supply, and those in the business have constantly to go farther back in the interior for their trees. Our laborers are all negroes, but in a warm climate they are not very industrious, and it takes a good deal of urging to get much work out of them. All our mahogany, by the way, goes to New York.

"In Belize, which is a town of 10,000 souls, and about the best harbor on the Caribbean coast, we know of the revolution in the republic of Honduras through the presence of exiles from that state. Nearly every day I see the deposed ex-President Bonilla. He is a clever negro, a fluent talker, and all his political convictions center on officeholding. In this he is like all the other Central American politicians. Official spoils is the controlling influence with these patriots. Bonilla seems to have plenty of money, and so it seems that it pays to be a professional revolutionist.

"The so-called revolution in Honduras is nothing more than a scheme on the part of the grasping presidents of Guatemala and Nicaragua, each trying to get the upper hand in Honduras, which, lying between Guatemala and Nicaragua, is unfortunately a buffer in the contentions between the bigger states."

HOW THEY STAND GREAT HEAT

From the New York Press.

"Persons who complain of the heat when the thermometer reaches the 90's," said a steamship engineer, "seldom think of the discomforts of the men employed in gas works, in blast furnaces, and in steamships, where the firemen have to endure an atmosphere ranging from 118 to 140 degrees. In all these and many other places, where big boilers are located, the men wear very little clothing, and while they undoubtedly suffer from the exposure, they do not feel the heat as much as might be supposed. The explanation of this fact is, that these men are not reached by the humidity. They are working in places where the artificial heat is so intense as to drive out the humidity, and 118 or more degrees of heat in a pure, dry air, is not felt so much as a mixture of 90 degrees of heat, and 80 per cent of humidity, that tells on people and sorely tries their vitality."

The foolishness of fools from the lips of philosophers would pass for philosophy.

The way some people can keep a pose all through life should be the despair of professional models.

What the Press Agents Say

NEW BILL AT THE OPERA HOUSE

One of the best 10-cent shows ever offered amusement seekers in this city is now being shown at the Opera House, where the Cameraphone is giving comic opera, high-class vaudeville and opera in a manner so lifelike that many people ask if the originals are not really performing on the stage. The cameraphone is regarded by many of the world's greatest electricians as the most wonderful invention of modern times, and great things are expected of it in the near future. Years were spent in perfecting the machine, and now performances are given which surprise all who see them.

Last week's attendance at the Opera House proved that Colorado Springs amusement lovers are appreciative of the quality of Manager Nye's entertainment. It is likely that the large crowds which attended last week will be doubled during the present week. The bill will be entirely changed this afternoon, when one of the strongest shows on the circuit will be brought here. The show will be changed again Thursday. Two new illustrated songs, the best that can be secured in New York city, will be given at every performance and will be changed twice a week.

The feature of this week's bill is the two scenes from "The Merry Widow." The famous valse scene, which has set all the world talking, and which will undoubtedly set Colorado Springs on fire, will be seen as will also the great song hit from the same opera, "Women, Women, Women." Almost of equal importance to "The Merry Widow" numbers are the two songs by the famous minstrel, Dixie Dan. The Excelsior quartet, one of the best in vaudeville will sing, in costume, "When Tommy Atkins Marries Molly Gray," "Red Wing" and "Waiting for a Certain Girl." A sketch entitled "Jim Jackson's Courtship," and Clara Thorpe's two songs, "Don't Get Married Any More, Ma," and "Let It Alone," complete the cameraphone program. Two new illustrated songs will be sung.

The shows are continuous, running from 1:30 to 5:30 p. m. and from 7 to 10:30 p. m. Admission to any part of the house is only 10 cents, and patrons can remain as long as they please. The Opera House is the coolest and most comfortable place of amusement in the city and the shows are clean and entertaining. The management takes especial care of all children who come unaccompanied.

A DUMB HERO AT FAIRYLAND

Manager Braden has secured direct from the factory two feature films that have never been shown before. "A Dumb Hero" is Edison's latest film, and "A Road to Ruin" is direct from Selig Polyscope Co., the largest film manufacturing company in the United States.

In addition to the above, Mr. Braden has two black-faced performers on banjo and guitar, for evening performance.

Although Fairyland is putting up the best show since opening its doors, the price of admission remains the same, 5c for everybody, and the people are showing their appreciation by their attendance, as there were hundreds of people who could not gain admittance Saturday night.

AT THE EMPIRE THIS WEEK

The vaudeville bill at the Empire this week is one that will undoubtedly create comment far and wide. In Leslie's Barnyard Circus, the management has, without doubt, the best animal act of its kind that ever exhibited in this city. It is an attraction of great interest to both old and young and one that everyone should see, for it is seldom that an act of this kind is seen except in the larger cities.

The Wags, comedians, will be a welcome addition to the bill. The twain are said to be two of the best laugh producers now playing on the western vaudeville circuits. They will offer a unique comedy sketch, boiling over with rich humor and are sure to capture a liberal amount of the favors.

Miss Laurett Boyd, comedienne, will no doubt make herself exceedingly popular with a novel character turn. In addition to being a clever character impersonator and a sweet singer, Miss Boyd is a mimic and her imitations hold any audience in intense interest. The usual illustrated song and new motion pictures—good ones, too, will complete the program of the week.

On Friday night, amateur night, four prominent young society women of Colorado Springs will appear in mask, and whoever first guesses correctly the name of one or all of these ladies will be given a season ticket to the Empire. Four tickets will be given away.

PROSPERITY WITH STAYING QUALITIES.

From the New York Tribune.

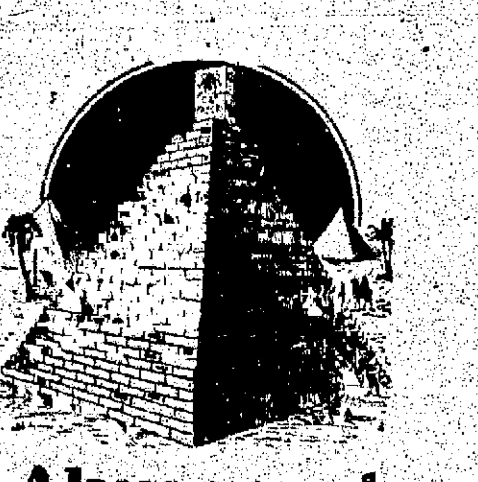

The 2,000 old hands and a lot of new ones taken on for work at a full ten-hour schedule at the big Edison works at West Orange, are merely another indication that prosperity has returned and is advancing. If not with the proverbial and hackneyed "leaps and bounds," at least with a stride which gives the best assurance of "staying qualities."

READY FOR INSTITUTE

BETWEEN 200 AND 300 TEACHERS HERE TO ATTEND.

First Meeting of Annual Session Will Be Held This Morning.

Between 200 and 300 teachers from El Paso, Elbert, Douglas and Teller counties are in the city to attend the annual session of the teachers institute of the Fifth normal district, which opens at the High School today to last for two weeks.

There will be few frills to the opening exercises. After the opening of the meeting by the director, Sanford Bell of Denver, and the announcements by Mrs. Florence M. Stote, county superintendent of schools, the work of registration will begin and everything will be in running order before the morning is over. The first lecture of the institute will be delivered at 3:10 o'clock this afternoon by Dr. Bell. Dr. Bell gave a course of ten lectures before the members of the Woman's club last winter and a number of them plan to attend his lectures.

MRS. FLORENCE M. STOTE,
County Superintendent of Schools.

Among those who will lecture during the institute are Miss Katherine Craig, state superintendent of public instruction, Dr. Z. X. Snyder of the State Normal school and Professor W. E. Thompson of the University of Colorado. Prof. Otto F. Dubach of the local High School will lecture every morning on historical and economic subjects.

THE LAZIEST MAN IN THE WORLD would not be contented to be kept in the house and doing nothing by rheumatism. Neither are you, who are always busy and active. Then don't neglect the first twinge of an ache or pain, that you might think is just a "crick." Rub well with Ballard's Snow Liniment and no matter what the trouble is, it will disappear at once. Sold by all dealers.

COOLEST JULY ON RECORD

Mean Temperature in Springs Last Month Was Only 65.8 Degrees.

The mean temperature for the month of July, 1908, according to the statistics of the College weather bureau, was 2.6 degrees lower than the average mean temperature of the month for the 28 years preceding. The normal for July in 28 years was 68.4 degrees, and the normal for last month was only 65.8 degrees. The highest temperature was recorded on July 5 when the thermometer registered 91, and the lowest for the month was on July 3 when the temperature went down to 48 degrees.

These figures doubtless will be a surprise to many of the "old timers" who have been claiming that the month just past) was the hottest for many years in this city. On the contrary, the records prove that the month was one of the coolest Julys in the history of the College weather bureau. The thermometer is the only accurate means of telling the temperature and when that instrument says that last month was below the average for 28 years, the argument is closed. In spite of the fact that on one day the mercury bobbed in the nineties, the record of 65.8 for the average temperature for the 31 days is proof positive that Colorado Springs is maintaining its reputation for having the most ideal summer climate in the world.

$100.00 REWARD

would gladly be paid for a cure by many people, who are crippled with rheumatism, yet if they only knew it, they can be cured by a few bottles of Ballard's Snow Liniment, and the price is only 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by all dealers.

REPUBLICANS MEET TONIGHT

Will Form Taft and Sherman Club at Court House.

A meeting of the Republicans of El Paso county will be held in the court house this evening at 8 o'clock for the purpose of forming a Taft and Sherman club. The organization is being formed in preparation for the coming political campaign and all Republicans of the district are urged to attend. A flambeau club, which will be an auxiliary to the main organization, will also be formed and a special effort will be made to get all the young members of the Republican party interested.

TO BUILD BIG RESORT

PLAN PUBLIC PLAYGROUND ON NEW ELECTRIC LINE.

Will Be at Turkey Creek Midway Between Springs, Pueblo and Canon City.

Midway between Colorado Springs, Pueblo and Canon City is to be built a public playground and resort that promises to become one of the finest attractions in the west. The scheme, which involves the expenditure of more than $250,000, is backed by the Kansas-Colorado Electric Railway company, and is a part of its plans for the construction of the Pueblo-Colorado Springs-Canon City branch of its interstate Arkansas valley interurban line.

The big resort will probably be located on Turkey creek, 25 miles southwest of this city, and about the same distance from Pueblo and Canon City. This is at the point which is to be the junction of the Colorado Springs branch and the Pueblo-Canon City line. By the new electric line it will be within an hour's ride from each of the cities, making it a pleasure resort for the entire region.

Announcements concerning this new feature of the Arkansas valley development scheme were made in Pueblo yesterday by A. B. Hulit, promoter. He says that $100,000 will be spent this year in the building of a lake occupying 700 acres, a theater, coliseum, an athletic park and other amusement features.

Don't forget, entries for the flower show close August 17. 104 North Tejon.

EL PASO AFTER PLUMS

DEMOCRATS OF THIS COUNTY WANT TWO STATE JOBS.

Friends of Leddy and Musser Getting Busy—Many Candidates in Field.

That two of the most important places on the ticket of the state Democracy this fall are likely to be captured by El Paso county citizens, is the opinion of many of the most influential men of the party in this city. Although the date of the state convention has not been set, there is already much discussion in political circles as to the possible candidates and the sentiment among the Democrats of this county seems to be strong for M. A. Leddy of Manitou for governor and George W. Musser for the supreme court bench. In case the campaign for Leddy proves unsuccessful all the efforts of the El Paso county men will be concentrated on landing Mr. Musser the nomination for the supreme bench and it is figured that at least one of the places will be secured.

Can't Carry Own County.

One of the strongest objections that will be advanced at the convention to the nomination of any man from El Paso county on the state ticket will be that no Democrat from this county will be able to carry his own county, hence the men behind the Leddy and Musser movements have a great handicap to start with. Nevertheless the delegates from this county will make themselves heard at the convention, according to local members of the party, and while they can not claim any chance of victory in their own county they will depend on the personal popularity of their candidates for the support of a majority of the convention.

Many Candidates in Field.

Just who will be Leddy's strongest opponent for the governorship nomination is a matter of much speculation among local Democrats and even as good an authority as former Governor Alva Adams recently declined to make any predictions. Among the candidates already in the field the most prominent are John Crowley, a well-known farmer of Otero county who has served in the state senate; W. L. Clayton of Greeley, also a state senator; T. J. Ehrhart, senator from Chaffee county; John R. Shafroth and E. C. Stimson of Denver. There is some question as to whether Denver county will advance a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, the reason being that it will insist on naming one or more candidates for the supreme bench. Stimson is said to prefer the city attorneyship of Denver and if he succeeds in landing this he will be out of the race for the governorship. John C. Bell of Montrose is much spoken of as a man that would be acceptable to Democrats from all parts of the state, but it is said that he is not anxious to make the race on account of business reasons.

From the northern part of the state the men whose booms appear to have the greatest strength are Senator B. L. Jefferson of Routt county, Judge A. C. Bennett of Boulder, Frank J. Annis of Fort Collins and Mayor Green of Greeley. The latter has been elected mayor of a strong Republican city three times and is looked upon as a good vote getter. Judge Morton S. Bailey of Canon City and District Attorney S. H. White of Pueblo are also in the race. Samuel N. Wheeler of Grand Junction is said to have strong support on the western slope, but is being opposed by Judge J. T. Shumate of Garfield county and has not been able to get the support of the Mesa county delegation.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON AND YOUNG PEOPLE'S TOPIC

WHEN GIANTS FALL

The International Sunday School Lesson for August 9 Is: "David and Goliath." 1 Sam. 17:1—18:5.

By William T. Ellis.

This is a bad year for giants. In fact, it looks as if the mortality among these sons of Anak would break records during the first generation of the Twentieth century. Huge, vaunting, and seemingly invulnerable evils of heroic size and ancient lineage have gone tumbling before the onslaught of despised adversaries. Even the giant of monopolistic wealth seems toppling to his knees. The vested rights of mighty wrongs have been swept away with annoying rapidity. The simple-minded David of moral reform has borne the head of more than one Goliath of corruption to the inspection of sovereign right.

This old and deathless tale of the duel between the giant Philistine and the shepherd boy from Bethlehem has become one of the world's common figures of speech, to typify the conflict between wrongs that seem all-powerful, and justice that seems feeble. While the story is a true one, and its characters real personages, and so to be studied, yet its greatest serves its best present use purpose in illustrating the principles which to an especial degree need emphasis at the present time.

The Battle of Champions.

The background of the incident is simple and dramatic. The Philistines had grown increasingly bold in their raids upon Israel. The madness that was settling over the latter's monarch had made the nation's nerve weak. The two armies had encamped on the steep hillsides of a valley, in plain sight of each other. The attacked party would have such an advantage, because of the climb up the slope, that the issue was not joined through several weeks. The short-range weapons of the time required fighting at close quarters.

In this state of affairs the Philistines proposed a battle by champions, a procedure common in ancient warfare and not unknown down to comparatively modern times. Their representative was a giant, about nine feet tall, and fully clad in the habiliments of an expert warrior. For 40 days in succession this Goliath came down into the valley, taunting the Israelities to send forth a warrior to do battle with him. The sun flashing from his brilliant armor, and from the head of his mighty spear, added weight to his boastings, and helped increase the terror of the Israelites, who had no man fit to face the champion. Saul once would have dared the trial; but his royal spirit had been broken. Even courageous Jonathan seems not to have proffered himself.

All unnoticed, there came into the Israelite camp, with the springing gait of the mountaineer, a country youth bearing on his back a load of provisions. Had any one chanced to observe the young man he would have remarked his unusual comeliness, his animated eye, and his fresh interest in the military life about him. But to the soldiers he was only one more messenger from back-country, bringing supplies to his kindred. So it was. The youngest son of old Jesse, David, had been called from the care of the sheep to bear his father's solicitous inquiries, and his gifts of love, to the three eldest sons, who were enlisted in Saul's army. Nobody paid any particular attention to David, except his big brothers who welcomed him only for the gifts he brought; they seem to have been as churlish toward their young brother as has been the way of many older sons since. Neither they, nor anybody else realized that the greatest event of that encampment was the entrance into it of that boy. If cities could but know when the real heroes enter their gates in the persons of ignored and, often, ill-treated youths!

A Big Brother's Scorn.

The shock which comes to many a home-nurtured lad, as he goes out into the world and finds wickedness thriving in boastfulness, came to David when he chanced to witness Goliath's daily challenge, with its piled-up insults to the God of the Hebrews. There were plenty of soldiers, eager to be the tellers of news, who related to David the story of Israel's humiliation, at the lips of Goliath, and of her vain hope for a champion. While the giant's heavy tones echoed across the valley, the braggarts of the Hebrew army were taunted and dared by their fellows; others plainly showed their terror.

David was shocked. The scene penetrated to the depths of his spirit. To him it was fundamentally a matter of religion. These jibes and jeers of the enemy were an unendurable insult to the faith that had become very sacred to him, in his lonely meditations on the Bethlehem hillside. So he could not restrain his wonder and hot indignation that an "uncircumcised Philistine," should thus "defy the armies of the living God." What he felt so deeply the youth, in youthful indiscretion, could not help speaking out openly.

Big brother Eliab did not like this. Possibly his own pusillanimity made him sensitive. At home he had been the hero and the brave man; therefore he did not relish the idea of having his small brother behold him skulking to the rear when champions were called for. So he rebuked the presumptuous stripling roundly, reminding him that his place was with the sheep. Bullied by Goliath, big Eliab "took it out" in bullying David.

Standing Before the King.

The young shepherd had no intention of being sent home in disgrace. From his first knowledge of Goliath he had doubtless been animated with the desire to have a try at him. Stout hearts never stop to measure inches. David had that intensely practical mind which no sooner sees a wrong than it attempts to right it. Although he had a youth's body, he possessed a hero's heart.

His strength was as the strength of ten,
Because his heart was pure."

The genius for transforming his purposes into actualities belonged to David: he knew the art of linking up his good intentions to good deeds. He fully realized that his outspoken scorn of the Philistine, and apparent readiness to accept the gage of battle, would be carried to the king's ears. Would that all champions of right had a measure of David's common sense.

Ere long the ruddy youth stood unabashed in the king's presence. Questioned, he related how he had bearded both lion and bear, when they threatened his flocks. His simple creed held no place for fear: "Jehovah delivered me." Saul saw that this youth was of hero mould. When a man sincerely talks as a partner of God, he is one to flee from or to join, according as one's purposes are false or true. The great victories of life, through all the yesterdays of history, and to this present today, are won by high-hearted faith in the sure triumph of right. Napoleon might sneer about God's being on the side of the heaviest battalions, but Napoleon died defeated and in prison and disgrace. The sense of being a worker together with God is the first essential qualification for success.

Saul, eager to grasp any prospect of hope, was enamored of the dauntless David. He at once equipped him with his own royal armor; but the shepherd lad floundered helplessly in it. Each must fight his own foes in his own way. It has ever been the mistake of zealots to look upon their own particular reform and their own particular method as the only way to defeat the giants of evil. From David we learn better. Everyone must come to success along his own line. One man may fight in armor, and another with stone and sling; let not the conventionalist despise the originator. David set out to the spectacular duel, equipped only with his shepherd's staff and scrip, holding five smooth stones, and his trusty sling.

The Scornful Giant.

Little wonder that Goliath laughed in scorn and in indignation. He gnashed his teeth at the insult of sending out this stripling to meet him. That was the giant's great blunder; he despised his enemy. While he boasted and blustered and cursed, his doom advanced quietly to meet him. The dignity of David's studied reply would have warned him, had his wit been equal to his inches. The calm certitude and particularity of it were ominous, like the voice of a prophet. Beware of the man who fights calling on his God, and convinced that he represents the Lord. "Jehovah saveth not with the sword and spear," David reminded his big opponent.

Then the devout young champion uttered the sentence which is the core of this story, and the secret of every victory for moral reform—the motto which should be inscribed on the banners of those who do battle for total abstinence, for a pure state, for clean cities, for childless factories, for godly schools, for a holy Sabbath, for the redress of the wrongs of the workingman, for social purity, for world evangelization, and every other righteous cause. These are the words that interpret the defeat of all Goliaths: "For the battle is Jehovah's." The size and skill of the contending forces is relatively unimportant. The supreme question is, "Am I fighting on the Lord's side?"

A Victory and a Prize.

As the giant leaned back his head in a guffaw of laughter—so runs the ancient comment—over the presumptuousness of this beardless youth, whose flesh he meant presently to give to the fowls of the air, the sling of David whirled once, twice, thrice in the air, and then straight to its mark in the head uncovered by Goliath's gesture of disdain, went the pebble from the brook. The practice in marksmanship with which the lad had diverted himself on the hills had not been in vain; no acquirement ever is. That despised pebble, from a humble weapon, brought crashing to the dust the proud champion of Philistia!

At once both hills began to re-echo with the shout, "Goliath has fallen!" The two armies, startled by this unexpected issue of the duel, tarried only to see the unarmed boy go forward and cut off Goliath's head with the latter's own sword, before the rout began. Jehovah was vindicated. His glory had been revealed; for he had overcome the mighty by the weak. The shepherd's sling had been used to bring down the mailed warrior whom the world had counted invincible. One more of God's surprises.

As for David, he earned unexpected reward—the highest. For he won a friend, Jonathan, the king's son, looked upon him and loved him, and their souls became knit as one. The honors showered on the victor by Saul counted for little alongside of this boon of a friend. Then, as ever, the friendship, formed when engaged in noble service, proved a lifelong blessing.

KEEPING THE TOOL FIT.

Terse Comments on the Uniform Prayer-meeting Topic of the Young People's Societies—Christian Endeavor, Baptist Young People's Union, Epworth League, etc.—for August 9. "Why and How to be Healthy." 1 Cor. 6:19, 20.

By William T. Ellis.

The best way to conserve one's health is to make sure that one's daily program contains plenty of work, plenty of out-of-doors air, a goodly measure of play, and a simple trust in a loving Father. Then, as for the whole matter of health—forget it. Some folks make themselves ill by their solicitude over their health.

The body is not the master of life, but the tool of life. It has its place, and that place is essentially as an instrument to obey the dictates of the will.

A sound mind will insist on a sound body. Lack of reasonable care of one's health indicates a lack of perfect mental sanity.

The monastic interpretation of Paul's exhortation to "keep the body under," was to treat the body as if it were wholly an enemy and had no rights. Thus "the flesh" has come to be synonymous with all wickedness. The body assuredly should be kept under, its proper place is secondary and subordinate. Nevertheless, we now know that the welfare of the spirit is inextricably bound up with the welfare of the body. The two are, in a large sense, really one. So the person who is rationally concerned about his spirit gives the spirit a pair of stout legs to walk upon, a pair of sound lungs to breath with, a decently-kept stomach and a well-furnished brain. Religion and dyspepsia are mutually antipathetic. Normal religion should express itself in part by good health. To overwork in the name of religion is as unwise as to undereat in the name of religion or to overeat in the name of pleasure. To conserve one's physical well-being is actually to minister directly to a wholesome spirituality.

A few weeks ago I was permitted to look into the faces of five hundred college girls, in attendance upon the Student Young Woman's Christian association conference at Silver Bay, New York. There was nothing about the gathering to suggest a nunnery, or the stereotyped, unthinking conception of Christianity. The young women typified American life at its best—sane, wholesome, unpriggish, unartificial, sunny young womanhood. They entered into prayer-meetings with the same zest and naturalness with which they entered into athletic tournaments, or college frolics. The whole affair to me was novel; and I regarded it with a journalist's critical eye, yet I could not discover a trace of hysteria, sentimentality or aught else that might be classed by the most fastidious as "unwomanly." And it all advertised the religion of out-of-doors, the religion of good health; even, one might say, the religiousness of athleticism. In their splendid healthfulness those young women exhibited a type of saintliness that is very much more to modern taste than the anaemic spirituelle female figures of the sacred art of a few centuries past.

It is more important to keep one's health than to make one's accustomed living. Anybody with courage and enterprise enough can live somewhere for very little money and grow healthier while doing it; but whoever ruins his health in order to maintain a certain position and standard of living is inflicting a wicked burden upon himself, upon his family and upon society.

The first contribution to the cause of patriotism is to give to the state a healthy body equipped to fulfill the duties of a normal life.

As these words are written I see out of my window a small boy turning somersaults, forward and backward, down a terraced lawn, in the sheer exuberance of good health and animal spirits. He is enjoying his muscles. Simple existence is to him such a delightful thing that he retires at night by diving and jumping on to his bed, and wakes up in the morning to "skin the cat" or perform other feats on the person of the nearest relative who will share his frolics. Is it any wonder that he is sunny, merry and magnetic, so that the whole world upon which he smiles, smiles back at him. The buoyancy of life should stay with persons until the end; instead, many of us are semi-invalids before we are well out of our teens. All because we do not regard sensibly the sacredness of the body which the Creator has given us as the tool with which to serve him.

One who has traveled among the unclothed, or very slightly clad, natives of the tropics must pronounce the human form the most beautiful of all temples. In all the orient I saw no temple to compare, in grace and seemliness, with, say, the glistening naked bodies of a gang of street laborers in Singapore. The more we know of physiology the more we admire the skill of the architect who has built this most wondrous temple for his own indwelling.

When God wanted to show himself at the best that it was possible for mortal to understand, he took the form of a healthy workingman.

No doubt there is danger of making a fad of athletics. We may easily run to the excess of cultivating the purely muscular qualities of the body, at the expense of the intellectual and the spiritual. There are some communities where the people have run mad over sports; they have failed to maintain the balance of life and of relative values. To preserve a healthy body, and to enjoy one's self, it is not necessary to become an athlete. The means may never wisely be permitted to become the end.

Everything that one is or does depends upon the health of the body; to ignore this is to disregard the character of the foundation of one's house.

The preservation of one's health is a more sacred duty than the holding of one's job.

The man who takes time to keep well can always find time to do the other things that he ought to do.

SEVEN SENTENCE SERMONS

Honor and gentleness are not a dye or a lacquer, but warp and woof.—Charles W. Eliot.

Live as if he were, and you will soon come to find that he is.—Frances Willard.

It is a glorious thing to be called into the kingdom at such a time as this—to have part in the work of spreading in the world the kingdom of good will, of bringing down to earth the city, in which there shall be no more curse and none to hurt or destroy, in which "all men's good" shall be "each man's rule."—Dr. Gladden.

Do all the good you can,
By all the means you can,
In all the ways you can,
In all the places you can,
At all the times you can,
To all the people you can,
As long as ever you can.
—Anon.

Trust in Providence and your own efforts; never separate the two.—Dickens.

Christianity alone, of all human religions, possesses the power of keeping abreast with the advancing civilization of the world.—James Freeman Clarke.

Tomorrow is with God alone,
And man hath but today.
—Whittier.

A Grand Family Medicine.

It gives me pleasure to speak a good word for Electric Bitters," writes Mr. Frank Conlan of No. 436 Houston St. New York. "It's a grand family medicine for dyspepsia and liver complications; while for lame back and weak kidneys it cannot be too highly recommended." Electric Bitters regulate the digestive functions, purify the blood, and impart renewed vigor and vitality to the weak and debilitated of both sexes. Sold under guarantee at all druggists. 50c.

MONGOOSE A PLAGUE.

From the Forest and Stream.

The island of Ste. Croix, the largest of Danish West Indies, besides presenting to the artistic eye the most enchanting scenery affords to the sportsman opportunities for indulging his predilections little known to the outside world.

A few years ago, previous to the introduction into this terrestrial hunter's paradise of that demon, the mongoose, there existed large flocks of quail (Ortyx virginianus) in the level lands of the center and southern parts, affording fine shooting, but these birds are now scarce. In those days an afternoon's stroll over one of the large guinea grass pastures belonging to the various sugar estates, with the ringing whistle of Bob White sounding on every side, and the sudden whirr of their wings as a covey started up from among the grass at your feet and sped away with great velocity, was an experience to be remembered. The mongoose was introduced into this island by some well meaning but mistaken planters, with a view to the extermination of rats in the canefields, and though these vermin were thinned out in those localities they have become more plentiful in the buildings, where the mongoose cannot follow them, and so this beast has turned his attention to the quail and other ground frequenting birds. The consequent increase of grasshoppers and caterpillars has reached formidable dimensions.

Thus the mongoose, having increased with the natural rapidity of all things evil, has become a plague.

THE SIX-GLASS LIMIT.

From the New York Tribune.

The driver of a brewery wagon who has been eleven years' service was asked his opinion as to the six-glass limit as laid down by Dr. Herman Gerbert. Leaning against the bar with a foaming schooner in his hand he said: "It's hard to fix a limit for beer, and in that respect beer is like apple pie. Some can eat only a little piece, others can eat a lot, and I've seen men who can eat it all. I know men who could not stand under three glasses of beer, and I know fellows who can't eat their breakfast till they've had a couple. For seven years I averaged over thirty glasses a day and never lost an hour and never had a doctor's bill. Now, the doctor thinks that six glasses a day are too much for a fireman, and so do I. It's too much for many callings, and that's the reason I'm glad I work for a brewery."

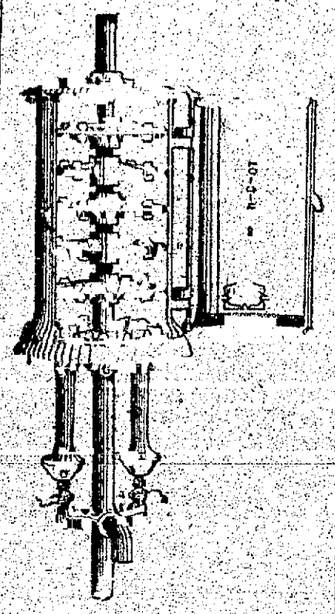

A Square Deal

Is assured you when you buy Dr. Pierce's family medicines—for all the ingredients entering into them are printed on the bottle-wrappers and their formulas are attested under oath as being complete and correct. You know just what you are paying for and that the ingredients are gathered from Nature's laboratory, being selected from the most valuable native medicinal roots found growing in our American forests. And while potent to cure are perfectly harmless even to the most delicate women and children. Not a drop of alcohol enters into their compounding. A much better agent is used both to extract the virtues and preserving the medicinal principles used in them, viz.—pure triple-refined glycerine. This agent possesses intrinsic medicinal properties of its own, being a most valuable antiseptic and antiferment, nutritive and soothing demulcent.

Glycerine plays an important part in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia and weak stomach, attended by sour risings, heart-burn, foul breath, coated tongue, poor appetite, gnawing feeling in stomach, biliousness and kindred derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels.

Besides curing all the above distressing ailments, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a specific for all diseases of the mucous membranes, as catarrh, whether of the nasal passages or of the stomach, bowels or pelvic organs. Even in its ulcerative stages it will yield to this sovereign remedy if its use be persevered in. In Chronic Catarrh of the Nasal passages, it is well, while taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" for the necessary constitutional treatment, to cleanse the passages freely two or three times a day with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. This thorough course of treatment generally cures the worst cases.

In coughs and hoarseness caused by bronchial, throat and lung affections, except consumption in its advanced stages, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most efficient remedy, especially in those obstinate, hang-on coughs caused by irritation and congestion of the bronchial mucous membranes. The "Discovery" is not so good for acute coughs arising from sudden colds, nor must it be expected to cure consumption in its advanced stages—no medicine will do that—but for all the obstinate, chronic coughs, which, if neglected, or badly treated, lead up to consumption, it is the best medicine that can be taken.
